COUNCIL REJECTS ALL PAVING BIDS FOR NARRAGANSETT AVE.

The council this week instructed the city manager to revise all paving bids calling for less than a six-inch pavement. This action followed the rejection of a bid for a five-inch pavement on Narragansett avenue, Bert Noble being the lowest bidder at 16 cents per square foot. Councilman Seifert moved that all bids be rejected and sent back for a six-inch pavement, which could be obtained at a much lower figure relatively, according to recent bids by Los Angeles contractors. A report was presented showing that the old council paid George R. Daley 23½ cents per square foot to put in a 6½-inch pavement on Santa Monica avenue.

STRAND THEATRE

Saturday, Gene Stratton Porter's "The Magic Garden," the romance of a perfect love, of superb, unsullied youth glorying in its faith and power overcoming all barirers, laid in settings of gorgeous splendor. A picture you will never forget. The news weekly will show Lindbergh's triumphant return to America, the greatest crowds ever seen in New York. This is the best news reel that has been made in a long time. Clyde Cook in "Wife Tamers," comedy and "Lumber Jacks" seenic.

Sunday and Monday, Florence Vidor in "The World at Her Feet." A woman lawyer becomes so interested in her profession that friend husband is left out in the cold. In an effort to win her back, he purposely hits another car, hoping to regain wifey's love as a client. But the pretty blonde chauffeur of the other auto sits in the same boat as he. Her husband devotes all his time to sick patients, and then the fun begins. A Mack Sennett comedy "Gosh Darn Mortgage" and "Musical Parrot" fables.

Tuesday and Wednesday Mae Murray in "Altars of Desire," the story of what goes on behind the gilded gates of society back of the whirl of gayety and wealth in the smart set's innermost circle. The searchlight of truth has been turned on the lives of the upper crust in a daring film of love, thrills and money. With Mae Murray more beautiful and fascinating than ever as the beauty who played with fire. "Newlyweds' Shopping Tour" with Snookums and news weekly.

Thursday and Friday, Harry Langdon in "The Strong Man." He was booked for small time vaudeville, but he broke into a big time love affair. He was strong in the heart but weak in the knees, instead of practising bending iron bars on his head, he rehearsed twining pink arms around his neck. He couldn't raise a two-pound dumb-bell but you ought to see him pick up a dame. The eighth chapter of the "Fire Fighters" and "Peaceful Oscar," Lloyd Hamilton comedy.

INDIVIDUAL AWARDS AND PERPETUAL TROPHY FOR VARIOUS EVENTS

It is announced that craft from the Mission bay, San Diego and Southwestern Yacht clubs will line up on Mission bay this Saturday and Sunday in the big event of the season for small boats or the "flappers." The regatta is sponsored by the newly-organized Mission Bay club, of which Tom Scripps is commodore. The Braemar perpetual trophy will go to the winning club, with individual awards for those crossing the line first in each of the three races. There will also be a cup for the boat hanging up the best performance in the series. Outboard motor boat races are also on the program, with suitable prizes for the winners.

NEW PASTOR HIGHLY PLEASED WITH OUTLOOK AT MISSION BEACH

The services of the church and Sunday school held in the school room on Santa Barbara Place, Mission Beach on last Sunday by the Rev. Alfred R. Taylor, were greatly enjoyed by the many children and adults who were present to welcome their new pastor and his wife to their new charge.

Mr. Taylor, who has had wide experience in founding churches and missions, expressed himself as well pleased with the outlook and expects to conduct Sunday school every Sunday commencing at 9:30 a. m. and preaching service at 10:15. This is a mission of St. Paul's Episcopal church in San Diego and a special invitation is given to all.

It is understood that Rev. Taylor has already bought a residence lot in Mission Beach, so it is hoped that in the near future there will be another attractive beach home, and that the reverend gentleman and his good wife will become welcome residents of Mission Beach.

PROPERTY CHANGES HANDS

Miss Margorie Critcher of Ocean Beach, has bought the former residence of Mrs. C. C. Middleton at 4869 Cape May avenue.

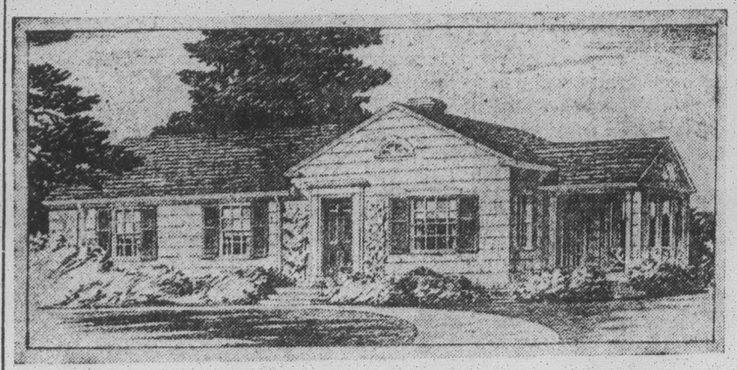
This Six-Room Bungalow Adapts Self to Any Lot



THERE is much to be said in favor of the one-story dwelling, and when the floor plan is as expertly arranged as in this Colonial bungalow the usual objections of lack of privacy and long distances to walk, are avoided.

This house may run either lengthwise or across the width of the lot. The exterior is of stained grey shingles with either a green shingled or tiled roof.

The trimmings should be white and the shutters green to harmonize with the roof.

The three bedrooms are well shut off from the rest of the house. The large open porch or sunroom can be made to open off either the living or dining room. The kitchen has the desired built-in features, including the useful breakfast nook.

The cost of this house can be materially reduced by omitting the basement and allowing space on the main floor for a small boiler room. The walls and roof also are sheathed with celotex to keep the temperature at comfort point the year round.

National Color Query

JAPANESE FOREMEN FOR MEXICAN PEON LABOR IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

C. M. Goethe, president of the Immigration Study Commission of America, with headquarters at Sacramento, presents the following pertinent points on immigration in an open letter to the public:

"That even HIS FOREMEN WERE JAPANESE, not white, was ADMITTED by a speaker who begged a recent California immigration meeting not to request congress to place Mexico under the quota. This speaker further disclosed THAT HE WAS FARMING HUNDREDS OF ACRES OF CALIFORNIA LANDS BY MEXICAN PEON LABOR."

Incidents like the above prompt this question, "For whom is the Boulder dam being built—future Americans on small farms, or absentee landlords employing Mexican coolie-peons?"

These peons eugenically are not material for good American citizens. Sociologists tell us the conquistadores practically exterminated the Aztec intellectual castes, i. e., the priest and the warrior. Those who remained were low-powered, docile peons. Their very name is synonymous with slavery.

Do we dare not thus inject another color problem into our national life? Peons multiply like rabbits. If an old American-Nordic family averages 3 children, if an incoming Mexican peon family averages 8, by the fifth generation, the proportion of white Nordics to Mexican peons descended from these two families would be as 243 to 16,807.

Ought not the box bill, placing Latin America under the quota, precede any legislation to build Boulder dam? Ought not conservation of America's race purity come before mere profit of a few absentee landlords?

You And Your Bank

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES ARE NOW AVAILABLE AT OCEAN BEACH BANK

Over one hundred safety deposit boxes of assorted sizes have been installed at the Ocean Beach branch of the Bank of Italy and Resident-Manager Fred E. Manning states that the thoroughly modern equipment is meeting with decided favor. Patrons of the bank and beach folks in general are cordially invited to avail themselves of the excellent service afforded by the fireproof and burglar-proof safety vaults. The rental rates for boxes are very nominal and the accommodations are highly satisfactory in every particular.

SOUVENIR KEY RINGS

Manager Manning also announces that patrons of the bank can now obtain exceptionally serviceable key-rings as souvenirs from the bank upon request to any of the officials of the local branch of the Bank of Italy.

YOU AND YOUR BANK

Under this appealing caption "The Beach News" will publish soon a short serial from the current issue of the American Legion monthly magazine which is of especial interest to all bank patrons and the public generally. It is written by a prominent banker who knows his subject well and tells it most interestingly.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

A hunter of Corona who decided he would try out a couple of Chinese ringneck pheasants, is in jail in San Bernardino county in default of $1500 bail, acording to reports reaching the executive offices of the Fish and Game Commission. The birds were killed on April 19 and shortly afterwards Deputy W. C. Malone nailed the offender and brought him into court where he was assessed a fine of $300 or ninety days in jail. When the defendant appealed the case, figuring the sentence was to stiff, the judge fixed the bail at $1500 and at the last reports he was still in the bastile. The judge's action meets with the full approval of the officials of the commission, B. D. Marx Greene, executive officer, declared upon receipt of the report of the case.

Horse racing is coming back to California with a galaxy of thoroughbreds from the West and East competing in a thirty-seven-day meeting on the Tanforan track, San Francisco, from October 27 to December 10. Plans for resumption of the sport were announced by Howard Spreckles, secretary of the Pacific Coast Jockey club, and Judge Joseph A. Murphy, noted race track figure and presiding steward in the days of racing at the old Ingleside track. The San Francisco handicap will be the crowning event on the racing schedule, for which a purse of $25,000 will be offered. Other rich awards will be offered, none less than $1000, to attract the best of turfdom for the greatest racing program in the history of the Pacific Coast.

Thirty-five million gallons of water daily were pumped from the Los Angeles water department's emergency wells near Van Nuys, to help supply the city of Los Angeles while repairs were being made to the Owens Valley Aqueduct which was damaged by dynamiters in the Owen Valley district. There are fourteen of the wells sunk into the beds of San Fernando Valley for emergency purposes. The flow from the wells keeps water officials from drawing too heavily from the system's large surface reservoirs, from which water sufficient to supply Los Angeles at the rate of 140,000,000 gallons a day, while damages to the Aqueduct are repaired.

Californians crave municipal entertainment, according to a report by State Controller Ray L. Riley showing that the 264 cities in the state spent $1,007,626 in 1926 to amuse their inhabitants. The money was spent for carnivals, musicales, celebrations, etc., that annually occur in every city, town and hamlet. San Francisco expended the largest sum for entertainment, her contribution to the total being $473,363. Expenditures by other large cities were: Oakland, $53,272; San Diego, $37,471; Sacramento, $25,141; Berkeley, $9,154; Long Beach, $185,565; Pasadena, $14,980; Fresno, $4234; Stockton, $15,327.

The Taft Union High School's physical plant ranks among the finest of the United States, according to a survey just completed by the California Taxpayers' Association. The rating was established through employment of the Strayer & Englehardt system, which showed a score of 892 points out of a possible 1000. The tax experts declared less than 8 per cent of American high schools have a rating as high. The Strayer & Englehardt system takes into consideration only the physical condition of the plant, not the scholarship.

Unmarried school teachers are but "immature novices" according to a petition circulated in Riverbank to force the trustees of the Riverbank Grammar School to employ married women as school teachers. The petition, signed largely by farmers, asks the board to resign. The move against the board began several weeks ago when the trustees made a ruling that only unmarried women or persons who must make their own living, be employed. The ruling further specifies that teachers must reside in Riverbank.

Eighteen students of the University of California finished their first cruise on a United States battleship as potential officers in the American Navy, when the U. S. S. Tennessee arrived in San Francisco on Tuesday, June 14. The students are members of the campus Naval R. O. T. C. Unit which was organized last year under government instructions. Lt. Com. Ernest L. Gunther was in charge of the cruise. On graduation the students will have the same rating as graduates of Annapolis.

The whole town of Oakbar, Siskiyou County, was sold last week for $7,500. Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Morgan closed the deal with E. C. Boring & Son of Yuba City, Sutter County. The town consists of a general store, a post office, a dance hall, a service station and several homes and cabins.

Giving impetus to California's campaign against smokers who throw lighted cigars, cigarettes and matches from automobiles, Judge Clendenning of Hopland recently fined two men $50 each for throwing cigarettes. The fines are the heaviest on record in the State.

W. B. Lewis, superintendent of Yosemite National Park has announced that henceforth the National Park Service will maintain the nine-mile Hetch Hetchy road connecting Mather Station with the Hetch Hetchy reservoir and that it will be operated as a toll road.

The city trustees of Chula Vista have given their consent to the local American Legion Post for the erection of a building in a recently acquired athletic park.

Enrollment in part-time schools of the State of California has increased from 7000 in the year 1920-21, to more than 22,000 in the year 1925-26, according to a survey just completed.

Although popular opinion has made the modern college student a Godless infidel, surveys by the University of California Y. M. C. A., reveal that 65.5 percent of the freshmen students have some church preference, with the Presbyterian church the most popular of all. Of the 1080 students who had no preference, 650 were men and 430 women.

H. K. Weeks, supervisor of wine control, is in California to confer with grape growers and others in the grape industry on general questions affecting wine production. Weeks will stay in California some time, to work out more satisfactory methods of supervision of manufacture of wine and governmental cooperation with grape growers and others.

Completion of the old mission towers at Santa Barbara, the only remaining unfinished portion of the historic building which was partially destroyed in the earthquake two years ago, will be undertaken at once. It is planned to have the towers completed in two months, so that the finished mission will greet visitors to the old Spanish days' fiesta on August 11, 12 and 13.

Over 300 persons from all parts of Northern California attended the opening of the giant Melones dam power plant June 11. The power plant, costing $2,500,0000, will use water from the Melones dam, joint property of the Oakdale and South San Joaquin irrigation districts. The dam, which cost $2,200,000, was completed last fall and has been in use this year supplying water for irrigation in the two districts.

A total of sixty-three advanced military science students of the University of California at Los Angeles have signed up for the annual summer training course given by the government at the Monterey Presidio. The camp lasts six weeks from June 17 to July 28. Transportation charges and all other costs are furnished by the war department. The camp is open only to university and college R. O. T. C. members.

Dick Nunnally, printer on a Stockton newspaper, and Montague Rolfe, a Florida aviator, will be contestants for the $25,000 prize offered for the San Francisco to Honolulu flight it is reported. The two men were engaged in flying together for some time in Florida. Rolfe has received the necessary backing from a Florida concern and the two men will be ready for a flight in about sixty days. Their plane will be shipped to California in about thirty days.

As a result of a lenient policy recently adopted toward outside visitors who go to Mexicali to patronize the bars and cabarets and then return to Calexico more or less intoxicated, the City Jail there is empty for the first time in several years. The change of policy was inaugurated with the appointment of a new Police Chief, as the result of protests from local merchants that the unfriendly attitude of the former police department was creating ill will toward the town and destroying business.

Anticipating a throng of people which will tax the housing capacity of the town of Alturas, Modoc county, to the limit, the officials of the Alturas Roundup Association are broadcasting the message, "Plenty to eat, but bring your blankets." The seventh annual Alturas Roundup will be held there on July 2nd, 3rd, and 4th. Each year the local rodeo is attracting more riders of the first water and names famous in rodeo shows all over the country will be found on this year's program.

Exploding 180,000 pounds of dynamite in a single blast, the entire face of a mountain of lime in Tehachapi Valley will be lifted into the air and dropped into a 750,000-ton heap of rocks. This was the announcement of the Monolith Portland Cement Company, in preparing to blow up the mountain near the town of Monolith. Company officials have set the date for the explosion at about July 1, but it is quite probable that the charge may be held back until July 4, giving the holiday crowds a thrill.

To you who are planning vacation trips to the mountains: Smoking is now prohibited in all national forests in California. The only exceptions are, as heretofore, at certain improved camps and places of habitation. In the El Dorado, Stanislaus, Sierra, Sequoia, Inyo and Mono national forests the order will apply only to areas under 7,500 feet elevation, according to a bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture forest service. The no-smoking regulation will remain in effect until the forest fire hazard is eliminated by the fall rains.

The City Planning and Building Company has announced its intention to file application for a permit with the San Francisco Board of Supervisors for a $75,000,000 tube running under San Francisco bay to Sausalito. The company proposes to ask for a fifty-year franchise to conduct a three-tier tube on a toll basis, with all classes of transportation to be handled. Cost of construction of the tube alone would be approximately $18,000,000 per mile, a total of $45,000,000 for the two and one-half miles which the tube is planned to run. Cost of terminals total $75,000,000

Modern Dancer Needs Supply of Calories

Hostesses should lay in a heavy supply of refreshments when they expect to entertain guests who like to display their charleston proficiency, says the Kansas City Star. An account of an exhaustive survey of the energy consumed in dancing made by a group of Scandinavian scientists at the physiological institute of the University of Helsingfors, has just been received at Washington which sets down in precise figures the number of calories used in different kinds of dances.

The waltz went to the bottom of the list with 3.99 calories used per hour per kilogram of body weight. The schottische, beloved of grandfather and grandmother, scored .02 of a point below the modern foxtrot, using 4.76 calories while the latter required 4.78. The polka, another institution of grandmother's day, needed 7.56 calories an hour, while the mazurka, evidently the fastest dance the learned Scandinavians could get anyone to practice for them, took 10.87 calories, or almost twice the amount of energy consumed by the stonecutter plying his trade.

The O. M. C. Bridge Club

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright.)

TED CARSON, sitting at his desk in the city, talked to Howard Fern over his telephone.

"Can you come out and play bridge with us tomorrow? It's our O. M. C. Bridge club and one of the couples can't come. You don't know any of them—but they're perfectly harmless. Yes, bring your tuck—and, say, you don't mind passing as a married man, do you? I'll tell you on the way out. And you can meet your wife at dinner. Madge wasn't sure who she'd get—it has to be some one the crowd don't know."

At about the same time Madge Carson called up Alice Gordon, an old friend who lived in the city. "My dear, I hope you won't think I'm dreadfully rude, but I'm asking you to fill in at bridge tomorrow night. It's our turn to entertain the O. M. C. and Clara and Bill have gone South. You see O. M. C. stands for 'Old married crowd'"—though, of course, we aren't exactly old. Well, anyway, we made some fool rules and one of them was that we'd never have anyone belong who wasn't married—and no member is allowed to invite an unmarried stop gap. But really Ted said he'd get some friend of his and I said you could pretend you were married."

So it was arranged, and it was not until Howard Fern came downstairs with Ted for dinner after a hasty change from their business clothes that he knew that the girl whose husband he had been asked to impersonate was Alice Gordon whom he had met five or six times that winter in the city, and in all probability they would meet again occasionally. That was what made the situation a little more embarrassing. But it was agreed that they were to play the role of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Norcott.

After the cards were over the various members took places round the tables drawn together for the supper to follow, and sat while Ted and Madge Carson brought on the refreshments. Some one brought up the subject of proposals and Madge announced that she didn't think that Ted ever did propose to her.

"I certainly did propose," Ted answered. "We were at a Sunday school picnic and I'd been drinking pink lemonade, and we stayed behind the others in the grove—I can remember the mosquitoes. One stung me on the nose when I kissed you."

So that started it. It was moved, seconded and carried that everyone confess how he or she became engaged.

"Don't have the girls in on this," objected Madge. "Because they'd tell different stories and then we'd find out what liars our husbands really are. We'll just listen while you do the romancing. Gerald, it's your turn." So Gerald told briefly of his own proposal, and then came time for Howard—Mr. Bob Norcott.

"You'd better let Bob Norcott out of this," suggested Madge, a little nervously, but half a dozen of the men protested. Howard was in for it, and Madge and Alice waited with some concern. Howard showed no signs of disconcertedness.

"Isn't much to tell," he said smiling assuringly to Alice. "The only really remarkable thing about it was that she was willing to have me. You see I'd met her a few times and she—well, you know how a girl can treat a man without being at all rude. Snippity—I call it. I knew I wanted her and I sat up nights trying to think of a way to get acquainted. Then one night we went to fill in at a card party—much like the party tonight—and I knew right then that I'd got to ask her, and though we had both been asked to spend the night I asked our hostess if I could see her home. I thought maybe I'd get my courage up on the way. It was on the train going in to town that it happened. I never had an idea that she'd have me—" Howard looked up and across at Alice with a straight, eager look that made her blush. But somehow she rose to the occasion.

"You're as bad as the rest," she told him. "I was crazy about you from the first. I think it was I who suggested going home together and I'm sure I did the actual proposing."

Madge gasped her amazement, but no one noticed it, and the confessions went on. Then they finished supper and there was the usual leave taking and Howard and Alice were alone with their host and hostess. Howard said he thought really he ought to get back that night—and as he was going perhaps he could take Miss Gordon. So they started and on their way to the station a few minutes walk away they said scarcely a word.

"You are a very good actor," Alice said at last. "I don't see how you carried it off so well."

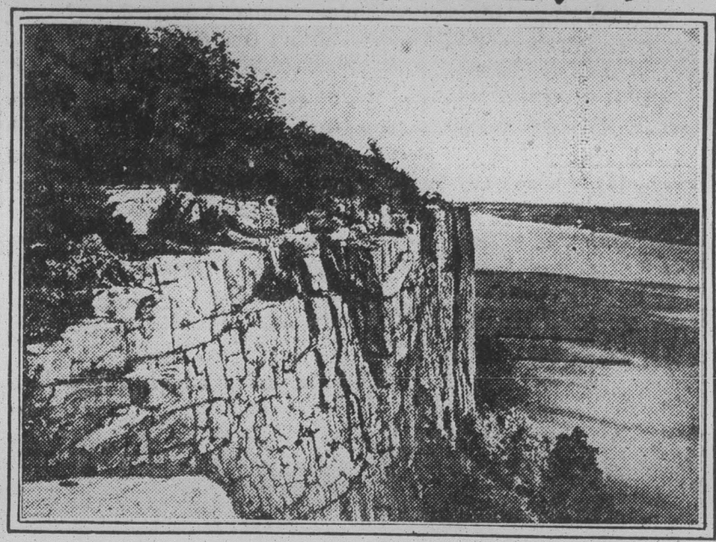
"I'm not an actor at all," said Howard without smiling. "You know what I meant. It was pretty hard, though, having to sit there and listen to you, knowing all the time that you were laughing at me."

Alice looked away from Howard toward the dark window. "Perhaps I meant what I said, too," she said.

"Then you really could think of me—you would marry me?" asked Howard.

Alice turned and looked at him. "Of course I meant it," she said and then she laughed. "Didn't I say I had to do the proposing—and now I think I really have."

OUR PLAYGROUNDS



Palisades of the Hudson.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

A FEW years ago "park," meant a relatively small city breathing space of lawns and flower beds. Then it came to mean also a great preserve by the federal government, where some major scenic wonder was dedicated for the people of the nation. Now the term also includes the growing number of reservations by states where scenic beauties, points of historic interest, or quiet woodlands or meadows are saved from private exploitation and set apart for the pleasure of everyday folk in search of an hour's or a day's or a week's vacation and enjoyment of Nature.

Forty-three states have now established more than six hundred state parks and forests. Scattered all over the country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Canadian border to the Gulf and Republic of Mexico, they range in size from a modest homestead, a military camp site, and an old trading post in western states, to New York's huge Adirondack park, more than 1,850,000 acres in extent. Thus there is growing up in the United States a graded system of parks owned by towns and cities, counties, states, and the nation, so that the traveler is seldom out of easy reach of a publicly owned recreation place.

Undoubtedly the automobile has been an important influence for the building up of state parks. As the cities have grown and absorbed more and more people from rural sections where they lived close to Nature, the periodic call of the woods and the open spaces, the rivers and lakes and mountains has been stronger than ever. The automobile has made it possible to heed this call and the states have not been slow to realize that while the great national parks serve many able to travel long distances, there must be other parks for those having only brief vacations or able to travel only short distances.

Leads In State Parks.

New York has gone farther than any other state in furnishing recreational and conservational areas. Its far-flung parks and forests constitute the greatest state park system in the country, covering approximately 2,150,000 acres. The state owes its forward position in the park field to its large population and wealth, its congested cities, whose people demand breathing space, and to the early growth of public opinion and governmental understanding.

The first scenic state park in the East was created in New York in 1885 when the American side of Niagara falls was set aside for a public reservation. Thus set to thinking about conservation, the state took a second important step the same year by putting an end to the sale of its forest land in the Adirondacks. This marked the beginning of the great wilderness park now over two million acres in extent.

Strangely enough the Far West, where there was no urban population, had led the way toward the establishment of state parks many years before. Other states had set apart memorials early in the Nineteenth century. But the first large-scale park planned to preserve natural beauties was the Yosemite valley, made into a state park by California in 1865. This remained the premier state park until 1895, when it was taken over by the federal government as a national park.

Philanthropy, the realization of the esthetic values of scenery, and of the health values in outdoor life, have not been the only forces that have advanced the cause of state parks. It has come to be recognized that it is also very good business to develop these recreational and camping centers. It becomes plainer each year that the tourist business is one of the surest sources of revenue that a community or state may find.

There is no state that has not some feature to attract tourists, to interest them to pause a day or two, leaving some of their dollars behind.

Park-to-Park Highways.

Just now the idea of park-to-park highways is receiving attention from park and conservation boards and highway commissions, and doubtless before many years it will be possible to map out innumerable tours and circuits that require from a day to several months, on which one may enjoy each day or perhaps every few hours the facilities of some state or national park. A number of the states are recognizing the value of the parks to motor travelers.

Like the federal government in its national parks, several states have seen the desirability of adding to the comfort of visitors to state parks by building in each a small well-equipped hotel, with moderate-priced accommodations. Such hotels have been built in practically all Indiana parks, and Kentucky is building a hotel at its Natural Bridge park.

Even now it is possible for a motorist striking west from the Atlantic seaboard to add interest to his trip by visiting numerous parks along the way. Starting from New York city, he may almost immediately enter the Palisades Interstate park along the Hudson. Farther along the Catskill park may be visited, and in the center of the state are numerous small parks in the Finger Lake region. Westward in Livingston and Wyoming counties is 1,000-acre Letchwork park, including the three famous Portage falls. Southwestern New York's wilderness park, many thousands of acres in extent, is in Cattaraugus county.

If a route is taken through Pennsylvania the traveler enters the second among the states in areas of public land devoted to conservation and recreation. In this state the forest reserves are the backbone of the system. They include 1,131,277 acres. Within the forests are special tracts known as state forest parks maintained for tourists and picnickers. These are scattered over the state near the principal highways. Valley Forge, of course, has been set aside among the points of historic interst as a state park.

In the states farther south parks are not numerous. Maryland has six state forests, some of which are in the extreme western portion of the state. Only the Patapsco State forest, a few miles west of Baltimore, is so situated that it is accessible to large numbers of recreation seekers.

Virginia Has Only One.

Virginia has yet to build a system of state parks. At present it has only one, a forest 588 acres in extent, near the center of the state, in Prince Edward county. The establishment of the proposed national parks among the mountains of the state will doubtless stimulate the growth of subsidiary parks.

North Carolina has only two state parks, one, the summit of Mount Mitchell, highest peak east of the Mississippi, and the other the remains of Fort Macon, together with two miles of ocean beach. Georgia has no forests or parks, but has created a state board of forestry, which will acquire lands.

If the Lincoln highway is followed, after crossing into Ohio several of the state "reservoir parks," formerly connected with the canal system, will be found within easy reach. The two largest of these are in western Ohio, one southeast and the other southwest of Lima.

Indiana has a state park and forest system which conserves exceptional types of scenic beauty of the Middle West. Most notable is an area of the remarkable sand dunes at the south end of Lake Michigan. The Lincoln highway and various other highways entering Chicago pass close to this unique park.

In Illinois only Dixon blockhouse, a relic of the Indian days, is located directly on the Lincoln highway. It is worth while, however, swinging south from Chicago, to include Starved Rock park, about 100 miles southwest of the city. This is Illinois' largest and most important state park. In Iowa is an excellent park system. Palisades park in Linn county, the gorges of Ledges park in Boone county, and the Wapsipnicon park in Jones county are near the Lincoln highway. Where this highway passes through Nebraska it does not touch any of the three state parks. The single state park in Wyoming is also off the chief transcontinental highway, and this route does not touch the many large national forests in the state.

IN OCEAN BEACH

Business Directory—Alphabetically Arranged
Service for "Strangers Within Our Gates"

OCEAN BEACH is famous as San Diego's greatest residential seaside community and is situated only six miles from the metropolitan district, with which it is connected by fast electric railway service and the paved coast highway. It is the most thriving and populous section of the peerless Point Loma peninusula, with ideal climate, wonderful productive soil and scenery unsurpassed. Wide avenues lead from the heights to the seashore and nearly all streets are paved and sidewalked, with a complete paving program in progress from the bay frontage to beautiful Sunset Cliffs. Ornamental lights adorn the main business section, while modern commercial structures and fine new homes, cottages and bungalow courts are constanly in course of construction. This delightful suburb has exceptionally good schools, churches, civic clubs, mail carrier service and all that makes life really worthwhile as is well attested by the appended list of prominent and progressive business interests:

New CALIFORNIA THEATER

Bobbed hair, balloon trousers, short skirts, pep, enthusiasm, vim vigor, youth, pretty girls, good-looking boys, an exciting crew race, they're all in Paramount's "Rolled Stockings" which reaches the New California theatre, Friday for one week's engagement.

"Rolled Stockings" is the picture in which Paramount's Junior Stars play together for the first time. Some you've seen, others are new, but each and every one of them is well advanced on the road to stardom. You saw James Hall in the "Campus Flirt", "Hotel Imperial" and "Love's Greatest Mistake." In addition to starring in "Rolled Stockings," James Hall will appear in person at the New California theatre, Friday evening.

Louise Brooks, another featured artist in 'Rolled Stockings,' won male and female admiration in "The American Venus," "A Social Celebrity" and "Evening Clothes." Richard Arlen won laughs in 'Behind the Front'. Nancy Phillips is a newcomer. She had bits in "The Quarterback," "Cabaret", and "The Woman on Trial." El Brendel, while not exactly a Junior Star, is also featured in "Rolled Stockings."

As may be guessed, "Rolled Stockings", is another one of those popular college stories. Unlike "The Quarterback" and 'The Campus Flirt' the big scene occurs at a boat race. Arlen and Hall appear as brothers. Both love Miss Brooks. A peculiar change takes place. The serious youth becomes a philanderer while his jazzy brother gradually discovers that his life has been a series of errors and he determines to change his ways.

What happens on the night preceding the annual boat race will have to be seen as it's much to exciting to record on paper. College crews from the University of California actually raced for the scenes. All Sophomores who have ever hazed a freshman will get a kick out of "Rolled Stockings."

Vacation time is here and the famous O'Neill Kiddies are coming back to San Diego, in their 1927 summer edition which runs the gamut of ensemble and specialties numbers, which are presented in a fast and interesting way, to which a very interesting musical accompaniment is provided. The act, is staged with pleasing touch of informality, so that much of it gives the impression that the children are at play, rather than working.

Milt Franklyn and his band are convincingly demonstrating their own incomparable method in scoring motion pictures as to correct symphonic color and mood, and also are occupying a feature spot in the stage presentation musical program.

BALBOA THEATRE

Cast in a role that displays to the highest advantage her talent as a great emotional actress, Pola Negri is to be seen at the Balboa theatre where her latest Paramount starring vehicle "Barbed Wire," opened last night.

"Barbed Wire" is undoubtedly one of the most unusual motion pictures to come out of the war, since it deals with an angle of the greatest conflict hitherto untouched by motion picture producers, life behind the battle lines. It was adapted from Hall Caine's novel, "The Woman of Knockaloe," considered in many critical circles as the war's greatest novel.

Miss Negri displays all the subtleties of acting that have made her famous. Her transition from the naive farm girl to the mature woman with the entire responsibility of the farm on her shoulders is particularly fine and convincing. The struggle between her all-embracing hatred of the entire German race, and her particular love for the German prisoner Oskar is shown with admirable restraint.

Clive Brook, as Oskar, and Einar Hanson as the Brother offer two very remarkable characterizations. Claude Gillingwater as the Father, and Gustav von Seyffertitz as the Neighbor are not to be overlooked. The comedy touches are in the capable hands of Clyde Cook, erstwhile Ziegfeld Follies funster.

Production is credited to Erich Pommer and Rowland V. Lee. "Barbed Wire", is an adaption by Jules Furthman.

"Perk" Car and Car Brothers Band and vaudeville are other features of the excellent bill.

MUSICAL TEA BY THE WOMEN'S GUILD NEXT THURSDAY

Owing to illness the musical tea given by the Women's Guild of the Trinity Mission next Thursday afternoon will be held at the O. B. Woman's Club instead of at the residence of Mrs. Hendrix. An elaborate program will be given under the chairmanship of Mrs. C. N. Fiske. Among those taking part will be Mr. T. Morley Harvey, Mrs. Glen Gilpin, Mrs. Heinicke, of Mission Beach, Mrs. Stanley, wife of Lieut. Stanley, accompanied by Mrs. Vernon Smith, both of Coronado. Dance numbers will be given by the daughter of Col. Pritchett and the daughters of Lieut.-Col. Archer of the Marine Base, accompanied by Miss Ruth Neal. Everyone is invited to attend and enjoy a most excellent program on this noteworthy occasion. Remember the date and place, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Woman's club building, corner Newport avenue and Abbott street.

A delightful bridal shower was tendered Miss Erminie Lewis at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Schachtebeck on West Point Loma boulevard last Friday evening in honor of her approaching marriage to Milton Schachtebeck, the youngest son of the host and hostess. The rooms were decorated beautifully in pink, that being the chosen color of the bride-to-be. Many beautiful presents were given to the popular young couple. Those present were Mrs. C. L. Schachtebeck, Mrs. Pearl Schachtebeck, Mrs. Ethel A. Lewis, Miss Ermine Lewis, Mrs. J. A. Smith, Mrs. A. Collins, Mrs. Herman Davis, Mrs. Ralph Eaisling, Mrs. Robt. Jeargine, Mrs. Alfred Pierce, Mrs. Ethel Masson and Mrs. C. E. Osborn.

"MAKE TH' BACKGROUND AS NEAR LIKE TH' SEASHORE AS YA KIN, JIMMIE!"

Mother's Cook Book

Housekeeping moves in a circular track.
Of cooking and dusting and sweeping, I find—
Like the snail who must carry his house on his back,
The housekeeper carries her house on her mind.

THE NUTRITIOUS SOUP

THE primary purpose of soup is to stimulate the stomach and prepare it for the heavier food which will follow. All soups, if hot, are stimulating, but not all soups are nourishing.

Soups which consist of meat extractives, water and seasoning, are purely stimulating. They are invaluable because they stimulate a jaded appetite and warm the stomach.

A cream soup, however, is a meal in itself; with bread it will make a good, substantial meal. Such soups should be served when the rest of the meal is to be light. They are good for the heavy worker, the active children and those who cannot digest heavier meats; so the creamed soup is an all-'round good food for every member of the family.

All vegetables combine best with milk in cream soups if cooked, mashed and added hot. After cooling they are harder to blend.

A potato soup can be so very good and it can be so very poor that they would never pass for relations.

Cream of Potato Soup.

Adding an onion and a few celery tops to the potatoes while cooking will give a better flavor than to have them added to the milk. Peel six potatoes and cook with a small onion and a few celery leaves in salted water. When the potatoes are soft, put them through a sieve or ricer. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two of flour and cook until well blended; add a half cupful of the potato water and the potato; when boiling hot add a pint of top milk, or thin cream will make a richer soup. Cook in a double boiler for half an hour. Add a tablespoonful of butter bit by bit and serve at once.

Mixed Vegetable Soup.

Take one quart each of good beef stock, one quart of water and one cupful each of chopped onion, carrot and celery, one-half cupful of turnip, a sprig of parsley, a half cupful of cabbage. Parboil the cabbage, turnip and onions five minutes, then drain. Fry the onion and carrot in a tablespoonful of butter, then add the hot stock and water and one cupful of strained tomato and cook with a teaspoonful each of sugar, salt and pepper. Serve without straining.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

AT 21—Edward W. Bok was a stenographer.

"ABOUT this time I was a stenographer earning $18.33 a week. I felt quite sure that these figures ought to be reversed. And there were several positions just beyond me, too, which I felt I should be justly asked to occupy. But I was not and of course I felt aggrieved. I considered myself imposed upon.

"Now, when I look back upon that time I can see the reason my salary was not $33.18 cents a week was simply because I was incapable of earning that amount.—Edward W. Bok."

TODAY—Edward W. Bok is one of a very small number of editors who have become nationally celebrated. Bok edited the Ladies' Home Journal for 30 years and it is the greatest and most profitable women's periodical ever published. He was one of the first who recognized the principles which should go into the making of a women's magazine, so that it could serve the reader and become a good medium for advertisers. Since then practically all magazines of the same class have gone along similar lines.

Mr. Bok also distinguished himself by writing the autobiography, "The Americanization of Edward Bok," which won the Pulitzer prize a few years ago, and by offering the $50,000 prize for a peace plan in a contest which drew international attention and started similar offers in other countries.

Making It Complete

The rickety old motor bus, containing one passenger, pulled up outside the Merry Mermaid at the conclusion of its journey from Little Mudcombe.

Haggard and pale, the only passenger lurched out, dashed across the road and, turning a handspring, stood on his head, with his heels against the wall.

A bystander stood open-mouthed.

"Great Scott!" he gasped. "Are ye off yer bloomin' nut?"

Slowly the passenger reversed himself to a right-side-up posture.

"No," he answered grimly, "but this standing on my head is the only position I haven't been in during the last two hours, and I wanted to make the thing harmonious and complete all round."—London Tit-Bits.

TOMORROW will hold in her outstretched hand
The fruit of your Yesterday's seeds;
If you've sown your garden with wasted hours—
You'll gather a harvest of weeds.

The seed of Today is Tomorrow's flower;
So work—though you delve in clay;
If you pluck a rose from Tomorrow's hand,
You must sow rose-seed Today!

Look well to your planting then each day,
And live with a purpose true;
Whatever you sow you shall also reap—

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

MOTHERS AND BABIES

IN THE great war this country lost 34,625 killed in action, 215,489 wounded, and 13,995 who died of wounds. That was a record for 19 months of warfare.

In the same time the record shows that more mothers died from childbirth than there were fighting men killed, and many more babies died than there were soldiers and sailors wounded.

During the war the infantile birth rate went down in the country and the child death rate went up.

During the years that Belgium was being war-wrecked and torn to pieces the birth rate went up and the infant death rate decreased.

The reason for this difference is that this country gave no special attention to the care of infant life, while Belgium established 700 maternity centers where mothers and their little babies are assured the kind of care and attention that give them the highest possible chance in the fight for health and life.

The United States is perhaps of all the world the most intense in its study of ways and means for the saving of minutes and dollars. Every year millions of dollars' worth of equipment is junked because some genius has found a better or a cheaper way of doing the job.

Yet we placidly continue to throw away approximately 300,000 lives a year because nobody seems to be enough interested in the conservation of mothers and their offsprings to better our horrible record of suffering and death.

Every baby is a potential man or woman. Under proper conditions he would grow up to be worth in actual dollars to the community and his family from $20,000 upward.

Is it good sense, or good economy even, to let that baby die just from lack of care?

Would not a dollar invested in his rearing, in making a strong, healthy man of him insure pretty good returns?

Isn't it foolish to let him die by the thousand when he could just as well be saved?

And as for the mothers, if this country owes anything to anybody it owes to the mothers.

Every suffering mother is a disgrace.

Every mother that needlessly dies in giving birth to a new citizen is a reflection on the charity, decency and citizenship of every other dweller in this country.

Our sense of what is respectable should lead us to provide for the mothers.

Our judgment as to what is profitable, if no better emotion urges us, should lead us to make life and health more certain for the children.

STORE KEEPING

You have heard how a little mole, who had got even with a farmer who plowed off the heads of his children, had escaped from the farmer's angry hands to his friend Mr. Turtle, in the big lake.

Now, Mr. Turtle was very kind to Mr. Mole, for he knew how sad Mr. Mole felt losing his wife and all his children.

However, Mr. Turtle was none too rich, and Mr. Mole, had, of course, broken up his old home and was very, very poor.

So one day he said to Mr. Turtle, "Let's start a little store on the bank on the other side of the lake."

So to work they both set with great vim.

Mr. Turtle carried mud on his back of shell and Mr. Mole carried sticks to the spot which they picked out as the site for the store.

Then they began to build. Mr. Turtle had more ideas than Mr. Mole, but Mr. Mole was a better worker.

At the end of a few days the store was finished, and Mr. Turtle and Mr. Mole sent around notices printed on leaves which read,

"Fresh fish, fresh fruit, fresh pastry, at the new store. Turtle and Mole Bros."

All the animals around began to do their shopping at the new store.

The rabbits, molly cottontails, chipmunks, squirrels, toads and frogs all did their marketing there, and each day they bought more and more, for Mr. Turtle and Mr. Mole had such delicious things to sell.

They kept the store open all day, and at night they put all their provisions away, while Mr. Turtle went fishing and Mr. Mole got fresh berries and made most wonderful blackberry tarts, and he cooked the most delicious pastry.

The animals around would see the smoke curl out of the little stone chimney of the store and would think,

"Ah, there are those delicious pastries being made by Mr. Mole!"

And the next day they would all go and buy them.

The store grew so in wealth that Mr. Turtle and Mr. Mole decided to add a tearoom, which they did.

It was most attractively fixed with leaves and blossoms, and for tables they had smooth rocks which they covered with leaves.

The afternoon planned for the opening came, and all the animals dressed up in their best.

One very dressy old rabbit wore a high silk hat and carried a walking stick.

The animals enjoyed the tearoom so much that every afternoon it was the center of animal fashion and beauty.

But alas, one night, when all had been going so well, Mr. Mole smelled smoke and, looking out of the door, saw all the woods ablaze and almost reaching their store.

Mr. Mole shrieked to Mr. Turtle, "The woods are afire!" and they jumped into the lake and escaped with their lives.

I've often wondered if they ever rebuilt their successful store again, but I fully expect they have ere this for they were good business partners and good friends.

Curious

A teacher conducting her pupils through an art museum stopped in front of Rodin's famous statue, "The Thinker." She asked them what they thought he was thinking about.

"Oh, I know," replied one little girl. "He's lost his clothes and he's wondering where he's going to get some more."

Johnny's Joke

Mother—Better use the moistener, dear. Postage stamps are said to have germs on them.

Johnny (after some swift tongue work)—Oh, well, ma, after they've got a licking what harm can they do?"

"And you were little once like I am, grandpa?"

"Of course, my boy."

"Gee, you must have been a scream with those glasses and whiskers!"—Welte Welt.

Bright Boy

Teacher—Johnny, suppose you had ten apples and ten oranges and gave nine-tenths of them to some other little boys, what would you have?

Johnny—I'd have my head examined.

ANSWERED:

three vital questions you have asked about used car allowances

1 "What is my present car worth?"

Answer: Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value: that is what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

2 "Why should dealers in different makes of cars offer me allowances that differ materially?"

Answer: Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

3 "Is it true that the largest allowance offered means the best deal for me?"

Answer: The largest allowance is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not. An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car. Remember that after all you are making a purchase, not a sale.

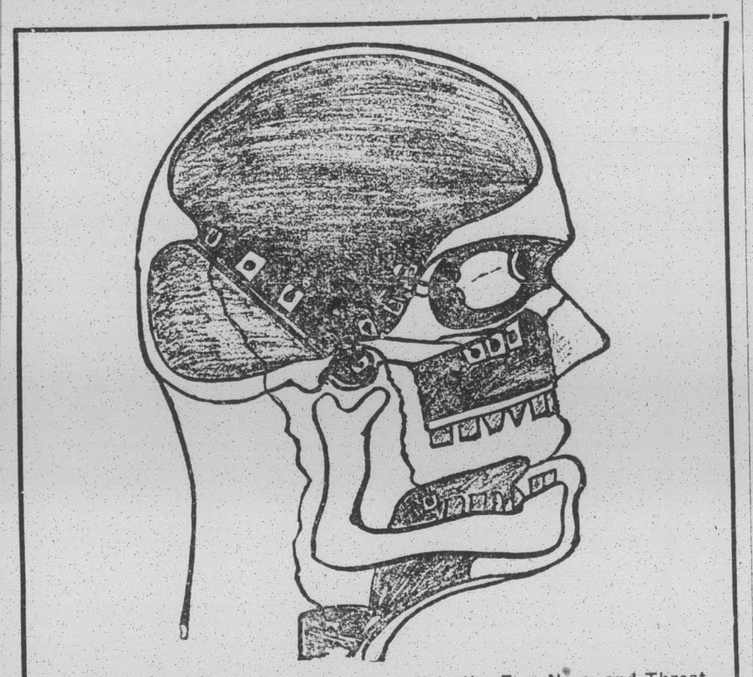
YOURSELF and YOUR BODY

By WILFRED T. GRENFELL

THE FRAMEWORK

A "Central" That Never Says "Excusit Please."



You See the Special Wires for Central to the Eye, Nose, and Throat.

"THE first thing about a house is the foundation, isn't it? Well, this isn't going to have a special one except that the whole universe is its foundation. It is far more wonderful. This house has got to run and jump and tumble around—so that is one thing less to worry about.

"The next thing is a frame. It is the most wonderful frame ever dreamt of, because once you start it grows larger all by itself.

"It must be upright, for the man is the master of the animals.

"It must bend every way, so as to allow it to move about.

"It must have lots of elastic, so as to save it from shocks, which would break it."

"How can we build a framework?"

"We cannot use a frame of wood, as that would break, or of iron, as that is too heavy. We must use something 'bendy' yet awfully strong and lasting. Let's pretend that we are making this framework. Some of the cells we spoke of make just what we want. The substance is called bone. At first it is soft, then, like concrete, it gets hard. But it is far more marvelous than concrete, because it is alive, and the cells go on building and repairing it day and night all the time. They use half water and half solid matter. The solid is mostly chalk and gristle, which is elastic and fibrous. Here is a bone which I put in acid a week ago. All the chalk has gone, and only the gristle is left. See, I can tie it in a knot. We must leave spaces between the flat bones, just as they do in cement roads, to allow for growing. We shall need flat, and round, and all shapes of bones. Some of them will be hollow, to make them lighter, except for a little marrow where the cells live which do the mending, and where new baby soldier cells are born, and live in safety until they are needed in some part of the body."

"Let's begin with the head, father, and the eyes and mouth."

"Very well. Fetch along those flat bones for the sides and that piece with top plates for the eye-holes for the front, and the piece with a hole for the back, and one with plenty of holes through for the bottom. The one for the side must be good and solid to hold the ear, and also fetch one for each upper jaw, and one for the lower jaw. There are 200 bones in the body, so we won't draw them all. What do we call this bony office?"

"The skull."

"Yes, and what is in it?"

"The brain."

"Right; and what does it do? Why, it orders all the rest of the body about—and interprets all messages. In it are the cells with which we see and hear and speak and smell and think. They are soft, fat cells, making a layer more than four-fifths of an inch thick. Each cell is an electric battery or electric wire, that sends or carries all the telegrams to all parts of the body. There are many millions of these cells, all being charged all the time. There are so many of them that they have practically to stand on the top of each other in our small box and be placed in folds, so as to let it hold still more."

"Won't they get all mixed up, father, when we jump about?"

"Yes, if we don't put in plenty of shelves and then tie them all in their places, and put good oil-bags between them, and then a bone wall to keep them from bruising each other. You see here the cells and the wires on their shelves, and then the strong bag filled with oil round the whole to prevent any banging of the cells as we move our heads.

"Now we will saw the box both ways to show you how it goes. On the bottom are many ridges and holes, and now look at the middle compartment which holds the soft cells when we roll our heads. Isn't it a jolly fine box? It is all ready to wire and put the cells into.

"You see, we use only one-half of our brain. A left-handed boy uses the right side of the brain, and a right handed boy the left. The other side is carefully kept in reserve, so in case an accident happens to one side, then we can learn to use the other.

"It is really a fine set of offices. You see, the cells are outside. The keyboard on which you and I play when we direct the machine is at the front and on the top.

"The balancing key and cells are in the back, on the lower shelf, and all the cells that run the levers and engines are at the back, low down. It is the busiest repeating office in the whole world.

"Some few wires must go through private holes, like the hearing and seeing wires; but nearly all go through that big hole in the back-bone. In a big rope called the cord of the spine. So we must make a few special holes in the floor.

"You see here how the little cords for the nose and the eye and the ear and the tongue go. Cords also go to all the factories, to the heart to keep it pumping, to the lungs to keep them breathing in air, to the kidneys to keep the filter cells working, and so on.

"That is enough for today. I do hope you boys have some brains, and that it isn't all fat inside those round heads of yours."

Odd Creature Found in Jungles of Java

A scaly monster of the prehuman ages of the earth, surviving into modern times in the almost unvisited swampy fastness of southern Java, is reported to the German scientific journal Die Umschau by Dr. P. Valgeler. It is described as a one-horned rhinoceros, related to a form already known elsewhere in the East Indies but differing from it in that its almost naked hide is closely covered with small, hard, horny scales. It also has enormous front teeth, like those of a hippopotamus. It has often been described by the natives under the name "Tanggiling," which means "scaly beast," but Europeans were incredulous, regarding these reports as folklore. A few professional hunters among the whites had killed specimens; but they could obtain such high prices from the Chinese, who use the hide and horns of rhinoceroses in medicine, that they were secretive about the business and did not share their knowledge with scientists. Finally, however, photographs were brought out of the jungle showing clearly that the animal is something entirely new to science. Now that its existence has been authenticated it is expected that efforts will be made to obtain living specimens for zoological parks.

PRINT SILK ENSEMBLES FOR BEACH; MATCHING CAPES AND CHIC TOUCH

A PLACE for everything and everything in its place"—and that place, according to Dame Fashion is the sandy beach with its background of sky and sea, when it comes to a perfect setting for apparel which is startlingly bizarre, spectacular and boldly colorful. Wherefore stylists have taken their cue, playing up to their limit the charm of vivid printed silks, cretonnes, satins and figured crepes, as mediums for beach and swimming costumes.

There is an interesting diversity to bathing and beach suits this season, so much so, they give the aspect of a style pageant staged to display every gette or brocade. What's more, the smartness of the beach square, as is also true of the evening square shawl, depends largely upon the manner of wearing it. It requires a cunning knack to wrap it around "just so," but the result is worth practicing before the mirror to attain.

The new wee-patterned silks, which are so gayly highlighting the fabric mode, seem to call for quaint and cunning fashioning. And they get it. One cannot imagine a styling better tuned to these naive silks than this illustration sets forth. It is one of fashion's latest.

Cleverness and modishness under-phase of the costume mode. In this gay panorama, one has the satisfaction of seeing humble gingham, yet not so humble according to the latest verdict of the mode, hobnobbing with satin and silk, with never an appearance of cheapening the scene. Indeed the gingham bathing suit has been taken up with alacrity by the elite. The quaintness and youthfulness of a checked gingham bathing suit is proving of widespread appeal.

Beach beauties are destined to promenade in marvelous ensembles this summer, featuring printed silks of every description. A charming beach costume is shown in the picture, which goes to show to what extremes the mode is trending both as to color and design.

Two outstanding items in beach attire are the square wrap of gay patterned fabric, also the tunic of vivid print topping black sateen pajamas. These short slips which look like an abbreviated day-time frock are also worn over black satin trunks.

The "square wrap" above referred to is simply a large square developed of rubberized gay print banded with a plain material. It is fashioned exactly as are the lovely evening shawls made of metal cloth and geor-writes this little frock, as viewed from every phase of the style question. The diagonal movement of the plaited ruffings, arranged as they are in tiers, is very new. The use of grosgrain ribbon for binding the edges of the cape bespeaks an outstanding rimming tendency.

Of course the first thing one notices about this arresting frock is its cape of self material. Capes to match the summer-silk frock are one of the foremost features of the later modes.

Capes also distinguish many of the handsome silk coats which are at this moment so favorably accepted by women of fashion. Often a coat of black faille silk will have a cape attachment finely plaited. Then, too, a frock of good style carries a plaited skirt with a short plaited cape-wrap to match. Such an ensemble developed in black or navy blue is very distingue.

Silk Dress With Cape to Match.

Speaking of capes, they are entering the costume mode from every angle, for evening as well as daytime. Just now it is the pleasure of the mode to add to the dainty pastel chiffon frock a cape of the same material. These transparent capes are indeed charming, especially worn with the sleeveless gown.

Newest French fashions include long capes of allover lace. Of black chantilly the wrap serves with every evening frock. However often the lace cape is in matched coloring to the sheer frock. Leading shades for the lace cape include gray, beige and soft modulated green.

Alexander Hamilton Man to Be Loved or Hated

How they hated him, and yet no public figure, save Washington, was so adored. Men were either Alexander Hamilton's frenzied enemies or else his unasking followers. His flaming personality left no middle ground. From the day that he came to America from the West Indies, sent by charitable subscriptions to receive an education, genius set him apart from his fellows.

A boy of twenty, serving a gun, even the reserved Washington was won to him at once, and made him his military secretary; generals received his counsel eagerly, and congress cowered before the lash of his tongue and pen.

Born out of wedlock, he moved as royally as a prince of the blood; fashioned with the exquisiteness of a Greek carving, his face was only saved from beauty by its strength; and that proud heiress, Betty Schuyler, had given him her hand in gladness.—From "Sons of the Eagle," by George Creel.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine, and you can use these facts as a testimonial. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. Daugherty, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

SOME FRUITS, TOO, MUST HAVE THEIR IRON

ALL human beings should have a proportion of iron in their diets, and the pineapple is one of the few fruits which requires this element in order to come successfully to maturity. The soil of Hawaii is a rich volcanic dust, but pineapples grow better in it with the addition of fertilizer in order to give them a balanced ration.

It was found long ago, however, that, though the soil contains much iron, this iron was combined with manganese, and prevented the plants from getting enough. In order to provide them with iron in the form in which they needed it, an "iron ration" was invented, and now they get it in the form of a spray while they are growing, and they keep green under this treatment, and bear delicious fruit.

Boys and girls in their teens are in special need of iron in their diet, and most of them will welcome it when it comes in the form of pineapple, whether in the fruit salad, the pie or cake, or, what may be liked best of all, the fruit cup. Mothers may be interested in trying some of these recipes.

Pineapple Salad: Make individual jellies with lemon jelly powder and the juice from canned sliced pineapple which is substituted for the water. When the jellies are beginning to set, drop into them small sections of sliced pineapple and blanched almonds. Serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise. This is equally nice as a dessert, in which case the jellies should be surrounded with mounds of whipped cream and served with lady-fingers.

Pineapple Pie: Drain the juice from a can of sliced Hawaiian pineapple. Heat one and a half cups milk. Mix one-half cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, and two tablespoons cornstarch and slowly add hot milk. Cook in double boiler until the cornstarch is thoroughly cooked. Pour on two beaten egg yolks and let cook in double boiler about two minutes, stirring all the time. Cool and add one cup of crushed Hawaiian pineapple, well drained, and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Pour into a baked crust and cover with a meringue made of two stiffly-beaten egg whites and two tablespoons sugar. Brown in a moderate oven.

Pineapple Cake: Cream one-half cup shortening and one cup sugar together until light and add two well-beaten egg yolks. Mix and sift two cups flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, and four teaspoons baking powder. Add alternately with three-quarters cup syrup drained from crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Fold in two stiffly beaten whites of egg. Bake in layer cake pans in a moderate oven. Put pineapple icing between the layers and on top. The icing is made by adding drained crushed pineapple to a boiled icing.

Pineapple Punch: Mix together the juice drained from canned pineapple, the juice of lemons, simple syrup, and ginger ale. Dilute with water to suit the taste.

MACHINE-BUILT HIGHWAYS

From a nation of few improved roads, the United States in the last ten years has developed the greatest highway system in the world.

Just as we use power machinery for all lines of manufacturing and for labor-saving appliances in the homes, so we turn to power machinery to develop our roads.

The impossibility of building modern automobile highways through mountainous and sparsely settled country by the old pick and shovel method, is nowhere better illustrated than on the new road which is being built along the Pacific ocean from the mouth of the Columbia river to Mexico.

To watch a few men with a great caterpillar tractor and modern road machinery, plus blasting powder, cut their way through hundreds of miles of previously inaccessible cliffs and forests, is a graphic illustration of the use of power equipment.
